SANDRA KING EXCELLENCE AND EDUCATION FUND

Providing tuition assistance for Nazareth Home employees to further their education.

Each day, the elders of Nazareth Home are cared for by our team members who truly believe in the person-centered focus that drives our healing mission. The staff's devotion is demonstrated in their 5-star level performance, which is greatly influenced by the legacy of our beloved Sandra King. King, who served at Nazareth Home for 26 years before retiring as assistant administrator, believed deeply in the power of education to transform lives. This philosophy of excellence and education has become a trademark of Nazareth Home.

The focus of this fund is to empower Nazareth Home staff to further their education while alleviating some of the burdens of overwhelming tuition costs. By supporting the education of our team members and giving back to them, we further strengthen the excellent care they provide to the elders.

Sandra King

"My parents taught me at an early age if you have an education, knowledge, no one can take that away from you. I learned from them that education is power. We live in a society that places emphasis on power. If we could instill in others the power of education – WOW. Education opens doors for individuals, ceases generational poverty, and offers hope and a future. Education promotes opportunities for individuals to make significant societal contributions. As an instructor of nursing, I had students who were homeless, single moms working in strip joints, living in abusive relationships, and I knew that education (becoming a nurse) was their only way for a better life." – Sandra King
